

---

Kenneth V. Rolston, MD

Clinical Professor, Infectious Diseases
The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center
Houston, TX

---

Dr. Kenneth V.I. Rolston, MD is a Professor in the Department of Infectious Diseases, Division of Internal Medicine at the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, TX. He also serves as Adjunct Professor, Department of Clinical Sciences and Administration, College of Pharmacy and Adjunct Professor, Department of Medicine/ Infectious Diseases Section, Baylor College of Medicine, in Houston, TX.

Dr. Rolston earned his medical and surgical degrees from the Christian Medical College - Ludhiana - Punjab University in Ludhiana, India. He then went on to complete his postgraduate training residency in internal medicine at the Franklin Square Hospital in Baltimore, MD followed by a clinical fellowship in infectious diseases at Hahnemann University Hospital in Philadelphia, PA. He is board certified in Internal Medicine with a subspecialty Boards in Infectious Disease.

He is a member of several societies including guidelines sub-committee for Fever and Neutropenia, IDSA; Member, guidelines for sub-committee for Fever and Neutropenia, NCCN; and Scientific Committee - Febrile Neutropenia, Brussels, Belgium. Dr. Rolston holds several awards including Best Doctors in America and The Sharon K. Martin Award for Performance Improvement Excellence, Third Place Award - Compliance and Documentation with Established Pneumonia Indicators. He has published over 300 peer-reviewed original research articles as well as numerous book chapters, and is a member of editorial review boards for several journals.